

Black Swans, Black Jellyfish, and Black Elephants: IWI's Project Maritime Director on Challenges in the Modern Maritime Dimension (Partnered with Marine Corps University Krulak Center's #BruteCast)

Description

What risks do we accept and what opportunities do we miss by not opening our aperture to the maritime environment? What security challenges do we face? As the Marine Corps continues our pivot to the Pacific, how do we need to think about the Sea beyond it's the thing we ride on in order to make our way to battle? This is a continuing mini series within the BruteCast focused on the maritime domain. Our guests are Lisa McKinnon Munde (@Imm20071 on X/Twitter) and Dr. Sal Mercogliano (@mercoglianos on X/Twitter). Lisa is the director of IWI's Project Maritime (@proj_maritime on X/Twitter). Dr. Mercogliano's YouTube channel What's Going on With Shipping can be found here: <https://www.youtube.com/@wgowshipping>. All opinions expressed here are those of the individual and do not necessarily reflect those of the Krulak Center, Marine Corps University, the United States Marine Corps, or any other agency of the U.S. Government.
