

Ukrainian Civilians Are Pioneering the Art of Resistance

Description

Nonviolent tools are undercutting the Russian occupation.

This article, published in Foreign Policy in early 2024, offers unique insights into how civilian networks have pioneered new approaches to non-violent resistance in occupied Ukraine. Written by Dr. Nicholas Krohley, Resistance Team Lead for IWI's SOF in Competition project, examines how these networks have adapted and thrived since 2022—as well as ongoing debates over how their efforts might be integrated into a wider IW campaign to disrupt Russian occupation.

Read the article here

Date Created

2024/08/29