

Insiders, Outsiders and Enablers: Intelligence Support to Irregular Warfare

Description

Episode 104 examines the role of intelligence professionals and agencies at the tactical and operational levels of irregular warfare while diving deeply into the links between US SOF and the CIA.

Our guests begin with an overview of the history of the CIA and the development in intelligence capabilities throughout the Global War on Terror, and then they discuss ways that intelligence professionals can partner most effectively with other organizations. Finally, they close with a discussion about the future of intelligence collection.

LTC \(Retired\) Charles Faint currently serves as the Chair for the Study of Special Operations at the Modern War Institute at West Point and as an assistant professor in the Defense and Strategic Studies program. He holds 6 advanced degrees, and prior to his academic career, he served as an infantry officer in the 101st Airborne Division before switching to the Military Intelligence Corps, where he served in the 2nd Infantry Division, the 5th Special Forces Group, the 160th Special Operations Aviation Regiment, and the Joint Special Operations Command.
